Re: Two Advanced Threat Assessment Training classes available

The Central California Intelligence Center (CCIC) is sponsoring two advanced behavioral threat assessment classes in Fairfield and Sacramento in February 2026. Kevin Smith with Smith Strategics teaches both classes. The classes build on Smith's basic behavioral threat assessment presentations, but participants are not required to complete the basic class before enrolling in the advanced class. This is an excellent training opportunity for volunteers participating in parish safety teams.

As I have written before, Smith's behavioral threat assessment classes are informative, engaging, and are exceptional in clearly explaining the mindset of an active shooter. This is an excellent training opportunity for volunteers participating in parish safety teams.

There are no fees for these classes. The exact class locations will be provided once registration has been completed. Both classes are from 8:00 AM – 5:00 PM.

The Fairfield class will be held on Tuesday February 10.
